FANNIE ANGELOS
(1927-2015)

As you know, our firm, Peter Angelos Law, was founded on the principal of a tradition of Service. For over 45 years, we have served by helping thousands of hard-working men who were poisoned by asbestos. Our office was selected by the State of Maryland to represent the state in National litigation involving the tobacco Industry poisoning and killing millions of Americans. We were able to recover 5 billion dollars on behalf of the state. We have also helped hundreds of our armed service veterans who suffered permanent hearing loss from being supplied faulty ear plugs from the 3M corporation. We Continue that fight today. Our attorneys have over five decades of experience in representing military veterans. We have recovered billions of dollars in compensation in past cases. Moreover, we have successfully investigated thousands of groundwater contamination cases and have unparalleled experience in this field.

Recently, The President signed into law the Honoring our Pact Act of 2022. Part of that is the Camp Lejeune Justice Act. If you, your spouse, child, friend, or family member were stationed or worked at Camp Lejeune from 1953 to 1987, they may be entitled to substantial compensation. There are many injuries and illnesses that have been directly linked to the toxic chemicals that were found to be in the water supply. Many cancers, heart diseases, birth defects and miscarriages may be compensated as part of the Act. Our law firm, Peter Angelos Law, is here to help you obtain compensation for injuries, that you or a loved one may have, stemming from the water from Camp Lejeune, North Carolina. Seeking compensation for injuries from the Camp LeJeune is separate and distinct from VA benefits and pursuing such claims will not affect disability benefits or VA benefits.

Let us help you and your family recover for injuries from the Camp Lejeune water contamination. Even if you have sought legal recourse for a Camp Lejeune related injury in the past and have been denied, you may still have a case.
